Harry Simon's Old Stand.

Bill Providing for a Maximum of 96,000 Men, Minimum 58,000.

Thirty Regiments of Infantry and Fifteen of Cavalry-Artillery to Be Organized Into Batteries of Heavy and Field Artillery.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The members of the house committee on military affairs will confer with Secretary Root in a day or two. Tuesday afternoon they went over the bill which has been known as the war department bill, drawn on lines suggested and approved by Secretary Root. The secretary expects to give further consideration to the bill, and then will send it to members of the committee. The war department bill provides for a maximum of 96,000 men and a minimum of 58,000, with 30 regiments of infantry, 15 regiments of cavalry, and a gradual increase of the infantry until at the end of five years there will be 18,000 men.

The artillery is not to be organized into regiments, but as batteries and organizations of heavy and field artillery. With the maximum army there are to be 150 men to each infantry regiment, making 1,850 men to a regiment. The maximum of a cavalry troop is to be 100 men. There is no provision for a lieutenant general in the war department, but under the present law the senior major general commanding would have the rank of lieutenant general. The war department bill does not give the same increase of major generals and brigadier generals as the Hull bill. The detailed staff provisions are an important feature of the measure.

It provides that hereafter vacancies in the staff, excepting the medical corps, pay corps and engineers, shall be filled by details from the line, such detailed officers being subject to line duty at any time. This is the same as the Hull bill of the last congress, and is earnestly favored by Secretary Root. The war department bill provides that the promotions shall be made from the regular army according to the present rank, down to and including the rank of captains.

The officers of the present volunteer army become officers in the regular army, but in the grades of first and second lieutenants only, the vacancies in the captains' rank being filled from the first lieutenants of the present regular establishment, the relative rank of the volunteer officers entering the regular establishment to be determined by seniority.

The committee will not hold another session until Friday, adjourning over Wednesday and Thanksgiving day.

HEAVY RAINFALL.

As a Consequence the Entire Ohio Valley Will Probably Be Flooded -The River Rising Rapidly.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 28.—The flood here was the result of a general fall of rain, averaging two inches, over the watersheds of the Allegheny and Monongahela valleys. This rain followed an average of three inches precipitation which fell last week. If this rain had fallen during the months of January, February or March, Pittsburgh would have been visited by the worst flood in its history, and the flood of 1884 would have, no doubt, duced. been passed by several feet.

The entire Ohio valley will probably now be flooded, as the reports show that the Ohio has risen rapidly at many places.

The cleaning-up process was commenced Wednesday, and it will be Friday or Saturday before the flooded districts are put in a normal condition. The health boards of the two cities have taken a hand in the clearing of mud and debris from the residence districts, and, to avoid sickness or pestilence, disinfectants will be ordered placed in the cellars of all houses where the water has made its appearance.

WEST VIRGINIA FLOOD.

The Conditions of the River Above Parkersburg Are Alarming-The Little Kanawha Stationary.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 28.-While so far there is not much danger of this city experieucing a flood, the conditions of the river above this city are alarming. All day Tuesday inquiries have been made concerning the stage expected here and the reports sent out by the bureaus of information have caused the people to take some precautions. At 6 o'clock Tuesday night the Ohio river was rising at the rate of three inches an hour and had reached a stage of 19.8. The prospects are for a stage of about 27 feet here Wednesday morning and by Thursday it is expected the highest point will be reached, when a crest of 35 feet will come. That will be just against his excellency, McKinley, I below the danger line, but fears of additional rains are entertained. The the name of one who is more than Little Kanawha reached a stationary suspected of being a leader, whose stage Tuesday afternoon; and all danger from a flood along that valley has passed away. Its highest stage was at Creston, where it was 16.7.

Manlia, Nov. 28.-A detachment of the 3d United States infantry was ambushed Sunday near Malolos. The Ladrones fired a volley at the Americans, killing two privates of Company F, and wounding three. The insurgents escaped into a swamp. Numerous insurgent bands have been dispersed and considerable quantities of stores destroyed in the province of Bulucan by Gen. Grant's mounted scouts.

Tommy Ryan Defeats Kid Carter. Chicago, Nov. 28.—Tommy Ryan, who now claims Chicago as his home, defeated Kid Carter, of Brooklyn, in six rounds at Tattersall's Tuesday night before a crowd of 5,000 people. Ryan had the best of the milling all the way, with the exception of two intervals in the first and second rounds, when Carter sent him to the mat with right swings.

November Corn Reached Fifty Cents Monday at Chicago and Closed at Forty-Nine Cepts.

Chicago, Nov. 27 .- November corn touched 50 cents Monday. It made an advance of 5 cents for the day, of 10 cents a bushel for the week and of almost 15 cents within four weeks. Young Mr. Phillips sold what corn changed hands at that poirt; shorts did the buying that advanced the market to the 50-cent quotation.

The 5-cent advance over the close of last week made the day the notable one so far for the campaign. A roar and a cheer gave notice of the half-dollar achievement, and there was a flocking toward the already overcrowded corn pit from all over The tiptop figure was made in the

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The Annual Report of John Knox Taylor, Supervising Architect of the Treasury.

Washington, Nov. 27 .- The annual report of John Knox Taylor, the supervising architect of the treasury, shows that one year ago the office had under its control 319 completed public buildings, inclusive of marine hospitals and quarantine stations. During the last year eight completed buildings have been added to the list. During the past year, says the report, the competitive system authorized by the act approved February 20, 1893, has had a practical test the results attained have been satisfactory so far as designs and the preparation of working drawings and specifications are concerned, but the matter of actual construction and superintendence of the works so favorable a statement can not be

MRS. FRED. C. LASHER, JR. The case of Mrs. Fred. C. Lasher, Jr., a well-known woman of Westport, N. Y., is one of the most interesting on record. It is an actual fact that headaches caused her head to split.

"For thirteen years," she says, "I suffered from terrible headaches night and day, until the bones of my skull opened so that the doctor could lay his thumb right into the opening on to my brain. Two doctors attended me and claimed that I was on the verge of insanity. I was under their care for nine years, but got no relief. Then I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and inside of a year the bones of my head had taken their natural shape again." That Mrs. Lasher's statements are true is vouched for by reliable men of Westport, and by a Justice of the Peace there. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured Mrs. Lasher when all other remedies failed, and it cures thousands of suffering women every year. If your head aches, if you cannot sleep and are weak and nervous, remember that this great curative agent, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, will make you well and strong.

SENATOR DAVIS DEAD.

After Two Months Illness He Passed Away at St. Paul, Minn.

Senators Nelson, Cullom, Lodge, Foraker, Wolcott, Morgan, Daniel, Clark and Pettigrew Will Represent Senate at Funeral.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.-United States Senator Cushman Kellogg Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations of the senate, died at his home in this city Tuesday evening at 8:48 o'clock, after an illness of two months. He had suffered greatly during his sickness and gradually sank away, being unconscious for several hours before death, and, so far as could be known, suffering no pain. Monday, appreciating the approach of the end, Mrs. Davis sent for the venerable T. H. M. Villiers Appleby, archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Minnesota, and Rev. Theodore Sedgwick, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Upon the arrival of Archdeacon Appleby and Mr. Sedgwick, Senator Davis was for a time sufficiently rational to express his grateful appreciation of their ministrations.

For more than a week it has been known that the death of Senator Davis was certain to occur within a short time. Although the bulletins issued by Dr. Stone from day to day made no positive statement to this effect, they nevertheless gave the impression that the case was a hopeless one.

However, the announcement came as a profound shock to the friends and fellow townsmen of the distinguished statesman, who had been hoping against hope. The senator's devoted wife, who has been in constant attendance upon his sick bed, had never lost hope.

The senator in his moments of lucidity expressed a strong determination to recover, and within a week told United States District Attorney Evans, who had been admitted to see him, that he was positive he would soon be well. Indeed, it is the general belief that the senator's iron will is all that has kept him alive for the past week. The serious kidney affliction which developed on November 11 had refused to yield to treatment, and his weakened frame was unable to withstand the poisons left in his system by these organs failing to perform their functions.

Senator Frye, president pro tem. of the United States senate, has been notified of the senator's death, and his wishes with reference to the funeral arrangements will be complied with by the family. Gov. Lind said Tuesday night that all the state buildings would be closed Wednesday and flags displayed ator's memory, and that the customary period of mourning would be observed. Further than this the governor was unable to state what would be done by the state of Minnesota to honor her distinguished son.

Among those who have been mentioned as likely to succeed Senator Davis are: Former Senator W. D. Washburn, Thomas Lowry, the street railway magnate; F. H. Peavy, the millionaire grain elevator man; Congressman Fletcher, all of Minneapolis; Director of the Census W. R. Merriam and State Senator H. F. Stevens, of St. Paul. Gov. Lind, who is a democrat, will, of course, have the naming of some one to fill the vacancy in the interval between now and the time the legislature elects. It is understood that the governor will not name a senator of his own political faith. It is stated that he will name former Senator W. D. Washburn to fill the vacanev.

Washington, Nov. 28.-The death of Senator Davis, although expected, came as a shock to his colleagues in the senate, who are gathering here preparatory to the meeting of congress. The senator's genial manner had endeared him to his colleagues and others. Many genuine expressions of regret were heard when his death became known. President Mc-Kinley was informed of the senator's death and sent a telegram of condolence to the widow.

Sergeant-at-Arms Ransdell, of the senate, Tuesday night sent notifications to the following senators, requesting them to represent the senate at the funeral: Nelson, Cullom, Lodge, Foraker, Wolcott, Morgan, Daniel, Clark, of Wyoming, and Pet-

SELLS ON THE STAND.

The Showman Saw His Wife Only Three Times Before He Married Her-His Early Life.

Columbus, O., Nov. 27.-The Sells divorce suit was resumed Monday morning before Judge Evans, with more interest being manifested by the spectators than at any previous stage of the sensational case. This was due to the expectancy that Peter Sells, the plaintiff, would take the stand and detail how the revelation of his wife's alleged infidelity came upon

J. F. Hatcher, hollow-ware manufacturer, testified he had participated in Peter Sells' penny-ante, dime-limit poker games, and ex-Chief Justice Joseph P. Bradbury, of the Ohio Supreme court, was among those he met in those games. Mrs. Sells brought in the lunch of sandwiches and beer at these games. This was at the man-

Mary Steck and Clara O'Brien, telephone operators, were subpensed as witnesses for the plaintiff, and then Peter Sells himself took the witness stand.

He said he was 55 years old last April, and was born on a farm south of Columbus. He gave the genealogy of the Sells family, saying he had 10 brothers and sisters. Sells then gave the story of his early life. He began as a newsboy in Cleveland, then was an office boy and later circulation manager for the Cleveland Leader.

He was conductor in 1861 on the first street car line in Cleveland. Next he worked for Rockefeller in the oil regions of Pennsylvania. From there he went to Burlington, Ia., and later to Chicago, where he sold strawberries in the markets. Next he went in the auction business in Chicago, and later transferred his business to Columbus. With his brothers, he started the Sells circus in 1872.

In 1876 he met Mary A. Luker, his present wife, in Medina, Knox county, Mo., where her father kept a hotel. He acknowledged being smitten on first sight, and wrote to Miss Luker after leaving Medina. This correspondence ended in their marriage in January, 1878. He only saw Miss Luker three times before the wedding day. There was no license, Miss Luker informing Sells that it was not necessary in Missouri.

There is a dispute as to the date of the marriage, Peter claiming it was January 21, 1878, and Mrs. Sells contending that it was January 23. They came to Columbus to reside immediately after their marriage. Sells said his wife wanted to travel with the show, but he objected, because, as advance agent, he could not be with the show.

Nothing was said about her riding a horse in the circus. Two weeks after the show started he returned to the show at East Liberty and was that after most exhaustive study of surprised to see his wife in a scarlet at half mast out of respect to the sen- costume riding in the parade. He protested, and she promised to ride o more and he never knew of her riding after this one occasion. Mrs. Sells claims in her answer that she was compelled to ride by her husband. From ten days after the East Liberty episode Sells said his wife never traveled with the show, except when he was with her on occasional

Mr. Sells had fully recovered from the breakdown of Monday and coolly submitted to cross-examination. It brought out the relations he is charged with having with Mrs. White Andrews. He admitted that he was intimate with her from 1869 to 1874, and all prior to his marriage.

That he had broken off all relations with her before his marriage, and that he told her all about it before they were married. He had seen the woman but twice since their marriage, and each time it was accidental. and he told his wife about it each time. Once was when he and his brother bought a piece of property and Mrs. Andrews proved to be occupant of it.

Continuing his cross-examination, Sells said he had never been drunk but twice since his marriage, and he had never played cards or a gambling device in a gambling house. Being a business man closely confined to his work, he needed recreation, and so he played both cards and billiards at his own home. Incidentally he said Lyons was a very poor player, so poor in fact that he did not enjoy playing with him, either cards or billiards.

"You understand," said he, "that to make it interesting to you, you must have for opponent some one who is somewhere near your match."

Outside of his business his social friends were mostly masons. He met them at their dinners, etc. There were some bad masons, he said. "Name them," said Attorney Hu-

CHICKAMAUGA PARK.

The Number of Historical Tableta Established During the Year Was 169-Number of Monuments in Place Is 228.

Washington, Nov. 27 .- Gen. H. V. Boynton, chairman of the Chickamauga and Chattanocga national military park commission, has submitted his annual report to the secretary of war. The report says:

"The work of establishing the park and its maintenance has continued uninterruptedly during the year ending September 30, 1900, and has been carried on strictly in accordance with the plan for dividing the funds appropriated by congress submitted to you by the commission and approved.

"It appears from the engineers report that we now have 67 miles of improved roads which cost an average of $2,902 per mile about 41/2 miles of which was constructed during the past year; that $15,120 has been expended in that time in road construction and betterments.

"Ther are now erected on the Chickamauga field 107 field guns, mounted on iron carriages to imitate the patterns in use during the civil war, marking 43 union battery positions, and 94 field guns, similarly mounted, marking 39 confederate battery positions. On the Chattanooga field 45 guns mounted as above, mark ten union and ten confederate battery positions here.

"Historical tablets erected during the year 169, foundations for state monuments- constructed 1; excavated 1; gurs mounted 12.

"The balance on hand October 1, 1899, was $46,583. The appropriations for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, including a specific appropriation of $10,000 for completing the LaFayette road extension were $70,000. These, with two other small items aggregating $2.53, make the total receipts for the year ending September 30, 1900, $166,585. The total expenditures to and including that date have been $53,286, leaving a balance October 1, 1900, of $63,317."

Gen. Boynton calls attention to the inspection last month by the veterans of the several armies interested of all the historical work thus far completed on the park with a view to the correction of such errors as might have been made in inscriptions upon tablets, monuments and location of battle lines.

The results of the inspection, participated in by prominent members of the armies which tok part in the actions as well as commissioners from the states whose troops were engaged were of the most satisfactory charac-

Of the 228 monuments only two were claimed to be wrongly placed, and those who preferred the claim as to one of these were not aware the claim, the secretary of war had sustained the present location.

Of the 341 state markers only two ere claimed to be out of p Of these one had been placed by the commission with the knowledge that it was only approximately correct, awaiting the very information now secured to correct its position.

IN MIDAIR.

Blast Furnace Employe Suspended By His Jacket 100 Feet From the Ground For an Hour.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Suspended in midair by his jacket 100 feet from the ground, Andrew Anderson, employed on a blast furnace in the Illinois steel works, hung for an hour Monday, while employes of the works trie rescue him. Finally by means of extension ladders the man was taken from his perilous position and, exhausted, carried to the ground. He was taken to the company's hospital, where he soon recovered.

The accident which placed Anderson in the perilous position resulted in seriously and probably fatally injuring three of his companions. They were all working on a scaffold at the top of a new blast furnace, when the scaffolding broke, falling with its human burden. Twenty feet from the top of the blast furnace Anderson's jacket caught on a short bolt extending two inches from the surface, and his rapid descent was suddenly checked. His companions crashed through the network of scaffolding to the ground and were picked up unconscious and bleeding by other employes and taken to the company's hospital.

Over this roof and wall boarding should always be laid good building paper. This may be a rosin-sized and tarred building paper, or a felt lining paper. On general principles, the thicker the paper the better and warmer the house will be, for really the sheathing boards and this paper lining are to keep out the wind which might enter through crevices in the wood work. On the finish work of cornice all joints should be made close and tight, and each member should be well and securely nailed to the furring, so that no buckling or shrinking will occur, and when the cornice is finished all members will be perfectly straight and true. All lumber for the cornice should be perfectly dry, and under no circumstances should green lumber be used, as it bends up and leaves openings through which the cold enters.
Outside Finish—Siding, or ciapbeards, may be used of pine, cedar or spruce. It generally comes in two sizes, which are known as six-inch and four-inch, the six-inch generally being laid 4½ inches to the weather, and the four-inch 2½ inches to the weather. Cedar siding is not quite so good as pine or spruce, as it splits very easily; and of the three kinds, good, soft, white pine may be said to make the best. If, after the finish has been delivered, there comes a wet day, with damp wind blowing, it will take in moisture from the damp air, and, of course, afterward shrink, so that too great care cannot be taken in seeing that the house is first absolutely dry, before any finish is delivered, and, in the second place, after it has been delivered, in protecting it from the circulation of damp air, or rainy days in closing up the building, covering with tarpaulins, or something of that sort.

If possible, it is a very good plan to have the furnace or heating apparatus connected up, so that on cold, damp or foggy days a little heat can be introduced into the building to offset the effects of the outside atmosphere.

Hicks' Weather Prediction.

In every probability December will bring many hard winter storms and blizzards.

The first period of storm and general perturbation will fall between the 3d We have a fine supply of and 6th, during which time the moon at north extreme.

About the 8th to 11th is anothor period in which storm conditions will arise and culminate in more storms of rain,

The regular storm period extend from the 18th to the 23d.

From about Tuesday the 18th to Sun- Coffees. day the 23 in every probability there will be storms of great severity.

Thunder and possible gales and tornadoes in the extreme South, the high barometer, blizzard and cold wave rushing down from the north west will send the boreal blasts in greater or less intensity to the borders of the Southern gulf. Rain will turn to destructive sleet storms over much of the country.

At the conclusion of the general storms of this period, all the north side of this continent will be fiercely visited with arctic winds and temperatures, and plentiful supplies of sleet, ice and snow will cover the Canadas and most parts of the northern and central States.

From the 25th to 28th is a reactionary storm period, with moon on the celestial equator on the 27th. On and about that date a marked falling barometer and ronewed rain and snow will return. The probabilities are very great that ner. unsettled and stormy weather will prevail over much of this country, and the globe generally, during the remainder of this month.

"ANTISEPTALINE" will make your breath pure and sweet.

++++++++++++++ The Patriot Powder

By T. C. Harbaugh.

CVERY reader of the stirring history of the American revolution knows what a fierce battle ground was the Mohawk valley. Lying open, as it catch; but a moment later a fist struck did, to Indian and tory incursions, its patriot inhabitants were constantly in a state of fear, and many who were smother their feelings in order to save door?" both life and property.

Among the American families who during the struggle occupied an humble house in the heart of the valley was one named Whitton.

Some time before the opening of hostilities the childless couple had adopted an orphan boy, who, although American by birth, bore the name of Gottlieb for a German grandfather.

Gottlieb Whitton, as he was known, was a smart boy of 15, short and stout, and to bed with the sun, the boy was us in, boy?" known everywhere in the neighborhood for his industry, and parents were went to hold him up as an example to their less thrifty children.

The Whittons were favorably disposed to the American cause, though they their tory neighbors.

The house in the valley stood on the post, and the spies of both parties were almost constantly crossing the neutral

Again and again the strange man made little trips between house and garden, each time bringing from the latter something bulky, which he car- heard one say ried in his arms.

At last the man disappeared in the garden and did not return.

The boy waited and watched a long time for him, and at last crept back to his hard bed in the corner and fell asleep.

The next day the farmer told Gottlieb that he and his wife intended to visit some relatives at one end of the valley, and concluded by saying that he would have to remain at home and keep house two or three days.

was on the boy's tongue to mention the strange movements he had witnessed the previous night, but fearing to let Mr. Whitton know that he had played the spy he let the opportunity pass.

When noon came the boy found himself alone with a dinner of his own getting, and at sundown he had fed the cattle and shut up the house.

His adopted parents at parting had cautioned him to admit nobody, and Mrs. Whitton had taken care to say that she had placed all the food he needed in the pantry, and that she had locked the cellar till their return.

The boy went up to his bed in the attic as the birds retired to their nests in the trees. Falling asleep almost directly, he Gottlieb crept to the window and looked out. A large tree grew in front the bullet home, and once more stood of the house, shading the long porch ready to resume his defense of the during the day, and throwing its branches over the sloping roof.

There was a figure under the tree which was not there when Gottlieb house, and you besides," roared a erept up to bed. While he watched it voice at the door. "We won't leave was joined by another which came from the porch, and then the low voices cile. You're not one whit too young were resumed.

The next minute Gottlieb went downstairs in his bare feet. The boy knew that the men outside contemplated mischief of some kind, and all at once he thought of the mysterious proceedings of the night before, and coupled with them Mrs. Whitton's remark about Stealthy footsteps came across the porch, and found the patriot boy listening at the door.

"Are you sure the boy sleeps in the garret?" asked a voice.

"That's his nest, as everybody knows," was the answer. "I know where the bolt is, and here I have the appearance of a little fort. gimlet ready. It will not take us ten minutes to saw out a hand-hole, and then we're inside."

"Do you think we'll find the Yankee powder in the cellar?"

"it is nowhere else. We've tracked it to Jonas Whitton's house, and it hasn't gone onto Fort Stanwix yet. 'A sly fox is Jonas, but hereafter he can't blow hot and cold with the same breath, for everybody will know how e hid Yankee powder in his cellar."

Like a flash the whole truth dawned on the boy in the dark. The numerous trips between garden ar I house were now explained.

The men laughed together. "You'll save the door if you draw the bolt," said one. "We want to look into Jonas Whitton's cellar."

"It is locked, and Martha Whitton earries the key," answered Gottlieb. "She is a careful dame, Martha is!" was the derisive retort. The boy knew the strength of the heavy hinges and thick planks; yet had succeeded in making no enemies of the men could in a little while batter down the door and overpower him.

"I know you are tories, who don't trail to Fort Stanwix, an American out- like Jonas Whitton," said Gottlieb. "I have been told not to let any strange people into the house till my folks come back."

BRAIN FEVER AND SWOONS.

should not fall into the hands of the old-Time Novelists' Favorite Affiletions weldom Heard Of Now.

"Now that readers have become so confounded exacting in matters of case of lockjaw." "How did he contechnical detail," said a New Orleans physician who confesses to a weakness for fiction, "our modern novel writers are deprived of a good deal of material that was used with great the boy, in a voice sufficiently loud to be effect by their predecessors. This is particularly true of a little catalogue of diseases that figure conspicuously "If you want to come in, why don't in what we are accustomed to refer to as 'standard fiction'-meaning the fiction that was admired by our fathers and grandfathers, and that now comes in 'sets," especially suitable for Christmas presents.

"At the head of the list was a mysterious malady known as 'brain fever.' Brain fever was a great favorite with the early novelist, and has kept many a plot from getting into a tight snarl. It was supposed to result from any severe mental strain, and might be brought on by terror, joy, remorse, overwork, suspense, rage or grief. So you see how handy it was. It could strike down the villain, temporarily sympathy for the poor but virtuous

"The old-time 'standard' novels will average about three cases of brain fever to the volume," quotes the Times-Democrat. "The author never went into any details, but generally announced the malady as a telling climax to a chapter-for example: 'He was too late; Grace was already tossing in the delirium of brain fever;' or, Next morning the scoundrel awoke raving; he had brain fever.' The disease is so well established in fiction that many people still believe that it occurs in real life, which, by the way. s a fine tribute to genius.

"Another valuable 'property effect' of the old-time novelist was the swooning all through the famous ro- letin. mances of 50 years ago, and the typical beautiful heroine of a good, rattling tale of adventure spent at least five per cent. of her time in that condition. The heroine, it is worth noting, was generally the only person in the book who 'swooned.' The hero, after being wounded in a duel or used up by some deed of daring, quite frequently 'fainted from exhaustion,' and the villain simply 'pressed his hand to his brow and fell senseless to the ground;' but it all came to the same thing, and was a very convenient piece of literary machinery. "The people in modern 'realistic' novels faint very seldom; in fact, almost as infrequently as they faint in actual life. In practicing medicine for a quarter of a century I have seen human beings under almost every stress that could be imagined, but I have never yet seen anyone lose consciousness through emotion only."

QUEER FOOD FOR HORSES.

Graminivorous Animals Occasionally Have a Liking for Strange Provender.

I have found, says a writer in the Contemporary Review, that the addition of a pound of fair quality of moist brown sugar to a horse feed of chaff and corn doubles its work producing power and that, therefore, the ordinary feed may with this aid be greatly reduced in weight without proportionally reducing the efficiency of the animal getting it. When no other feed is obtainable a few pounds of flour, mixed with enough water to make them easily drinkable, have great staying power, but few horses would take this, however hungry, unless they had at some previous time been made accustomed to it. I have known horses, when there was little grass, habitually rob the camp of fresh, salt or dried meat. It is even more certain that no horse would touch flesh unless at some time accustomed to it. What strange food graminivorous animals will eat when habituated to it is almost beyond belief. In Iceland horses and cattle are frequently fed on dried fish. I have known sheep eat meat, fruit, bread, pastry and the like, and even tobacco in considerable quantity without harm ensuing. During the early times of the diggings, when gold was being found in large quantities and horse feed, beyond the grass, was not procurable, many of the rich claim holders fed the horses used in their work on the mine with bread sooner than suffer delay. Bread, even unleavened, is better food for horses than raw flour and water, but it takes time to prepare and is rarely available on an emergency, while flour is much more likely to be. In Singapore it is not uncommon for horses to be given a loaf of bread soaked with a bottle of beer, which they eat greedily.

Harvard's Great Electric Plant. Prof. John Trowbridge has installed at Harvard university the most powerful apparatus in the world for the production of electro-motive force. The plant comprises 20,000 storage cells giving 40,000 electrical units of pressure, and this can be increased to 3,000,000 volts. But in order to obtain the full effect of so enormous a pressure, Prof. Trowbridge says it would be necessary to remove the apparatus into the center of an open field and elevate it at least 30 feet from the ground in order to avoid loss from the inductive action of floors and walls. With this great battery the highest degree of instantaneous temperature yet attained can be produced. Prof. Trowbridge hopes with its aid to obtain some clue to the ists in the stars. CARELESS WITH THEIR JEWELS

Women Who Travel Are Comtantly Offering Temptations to Thieves.

The persistency with which women continue carry their jewels and money in handbags when traveling in public conveyances is worthy of a better cause. As long as they continue the practice they must expect wily thieves occasionally to get away with their valuables, says the Chicago Chronicle. It is a favorite mode of transportation with women on the continent and some silly creatures over there, fancying it is English now do the same careless thing. They say they don't care to trust thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds in their other luggage and must know where their jewels are. Very good, but then they should have the bag or case chained to their persons. A curious robbery of this sort occurred between Madrid and Bordeaux a few since, when an English lady, the wife of a lawyer residing in Jamaica landed at a Spanish port and took the train at the first-mentioned city. The lady carried in a hand satchel her jewels, worth $4,000, and a sum of $1,000 in notes. At Bordeaux she was horrified to find her satchel missing and, thinking she must have dropped it, she telegraphed to the station masters at the places passed on the journey, asking them to look out for the missing property. Her purse contained money enough for her to continue to Paris, where she found a letter from her husband awaiting her in this letter he told her to be careful while traveling, as he had been informed by detectives that she was watched by two Russians, a man and a woman, who wanted to steal her jewels and morey. It was then that the whole mystery of the loss was explained. The lady had as traveling companions part of the way a young Russian and his ostensible wife; both excellent linguists, agreeable in manner and, according to their own showing, belonging to the Muscovite nobility. The young woman was particularly attentive to the lady, and with good reason, as the man, her confederate, was meanwhile angling for the satchel. The sharpers suddenly disappeared at Bordeaux, although they said they were bound for the Paris exhibition. There is little hope the victim of their artfulness will ever recover her property unless the persons who warned her husband shall throw out further information to enable the French police to track the thieves. It is said that every rich woman in London who is conspicuous for the magnificence of her jewels is known and watched by thieves who travel between England and Paris, and it is only when guarded by trusted servants that such mishaps are avoided. In New York society detectives hover near more than one millionaire's wife when she wears all her war paint and priceless gems to the opera and society functions. Scientific Extermination of Rats.

COLORS OF AUTHORS.

Successful Writers on Country Subjects Naturally Use a Lot of Green Words.

At first sight it may seem rather curious, but it is a fact that the value of a writer's work may be appraised by the color words he uses. Shakespeare's favorite color word was red. As a matter of fact, this is the characteristic word of most great writers. Out of every hundred color words used by Shakespeare in his poems, no fewer than 30 are red. White follows with 22; then comes black, 20; yellow, 17; green, .7; blue, 4.

It is only natural, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, that a writer on country subjects should use a lot of green words. Red must always be the predominant color in writings dealing with the hotter passions, with love and war. Even then the colors used depend in a remarkable manner upon the idiosyncracies of the writer. Taking the case of the poets, green is the color most used in the "Song of Songs." It is also the color most used by Coleridge, Shelley, Keats and Wordsworth. Black is the predominant color of Homer, and white of Catullus, Chaucer and Rosetti, while yellow is the favorite color of that weird writer, Poe. Red is the color of Tennyson, of Swinburne and Whitman. It must be taken into consideration that the old writers often used color words in a different sense to their present meaning. Some people go so far as to say that things looked quite different to the ancients, and that green and blue have been seen only during the last 1,000 years.

Red is the most pleasant and vigorous of colors. It is a joyous color, full of life and grit. It is the color Jingso-Why?
"I twit her about her strength and bet she can't carry up the coal from the cellar."

Syracuse Herald."

The sale gift is the color of the strongest of passions. In anything dealing with man and woman red must have its predominant place. It is the color of the rich, quick blood, of all that's best in life. White is usually a pleasant color, especially when associated with red, as a woman's white neck and red lips, ivory throat and blushing cheeks, alabaster forehead and rosy ears. Sometimes it represents cold, dull, pale, gray and wan things. Generally it is the color of innocence and purity, of sweet and wholesome things. Black, as a favorite verbal color, is usually found in the works of writers of somber, melancholic disposition. Such works are rarely of a healthy character. Green and blue are so closely related, in the sense used in this article, as often to merge. Generally green is a fresh, sweet color, the color of the country and opening life. Blue has more to do with the imagination. It is a learned, philosophical color. It is ethical and generally removed from everyday life. The works of a blue writer are deep and thoughtful, but rarely raise one's enthusiasm. The Yellow is a horrible color. Nearly

Curiously enough, yellow loses its loathsomeness if it possesses a dash of red or if it glistens. Its synonym golden is a pleasant word and is often used. A novelist will call his character's hair golden in the case of a heroine; he will call it yellow if she be an objectionable character. Writers use colors in the sense shown for the simple reason that we unconsciously have all our thoughts tinted. If in good health we think red; should our liver be out of order we think yellow. The bright, healthy majority are naturally red thinkers and read the works of red writers. Your jovial fellow looks at the world through rosy glasses and sees it to be optimistically red. The debilitated, burnt out individual wearily looks through spectacles with yellow glasses and the prospect is hopelessly miserable. SPEND LITTLE ON LIVING.

OPPOSE CHANGE.

Boat Owners Wrought Up Over Suggestion of Taking Yacht Race to Newport Course.

The New York Tugboat Owners' association is hotly opposed to changing the course of the cup race next August from Sandy Hook to Newport. The tugboat men say that the change would mean a loss of more than $2,000,000. "There is just as much wind off Sandy Hook as there is off Newport," said Secretary Edward M. Timmins, of the Mutual company. "The changing of he course just for the benefit of a few yacht owners would mean the loss of millions to the business of this port. Sufferers from this horrible malady early always inherit it - not necessarily om the parents, but may be from some emote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body,

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permamently all the poisonous virus must be aliminated from the blood-every vestage of it driven out. This S. S. Never has there arisen an organization that is capable of doing so much as this society for the needy helpless class to which its energies are devoted. It is nothing less than a practicable plan for saving every homeless child in America. and giving it a good fair chance in life. Its achievements, even to the present time, are wonderful. Organized fifteen years ago, it has spread into twenty-six States; and although, in many of these it has merely begun its work, it has cared for more than sixteen thousand homeless children. Wherever it is thoroughly organized, it is saving more children than all other institutions. The society is non-sectarian and combines in its scope all churches, and all benevolently disposed people. It has been heartily endorsed by the leading churches in their executive gatherings. It is broad in the application of its charities, receiving not only orphans and semi-orphans, but children both of whose parents are living-demanding only that the child needs a home; that its parents or guardians are unable to provide for it; that the child is under fourteen years of age; that it is of sound but the one that leads all others in merit, mind and body, and, if over eight years old, that it is not hard to control. While some may regard these as stringent requirements, they demand only the protection that ought to be given to every child; and it is gratifying to know that in every State in which the society has operated for a few years, more homes have applied for children than the society could supply. Nor have the children, except in rare cases, disappointed those who have received them; but have developed into better children, than the average of those who have been brought up by their own parents. A remarkable feature of the work is the economy with which it is conducted. It is not strange that in conducting a public children's home, an annual outlay of a hundred dollars per child is necessary to meet current expenses-in many cases much more; and since the time that the child remains in the asylum does not often average less than five years the cost of placing the average child in a home by that system, is not less than $500.
